Introduction to Santa Fe County

GOVERNMENT

Santa Fe County operates under the commissioner/manager form of government and is governed by an elected five-member Board of County Commissioners with an appointed County Manager. The number of positions authorized for Fiscal Year 2010 is approximately 962. The employees in these positions are essential in providing the following services: sheriff, corrections and fire protection, collection of property taxes, parks and recreation, planning and zoning, certain health and social services, general administrative services, low income housing assistance, energy efficiency initiatives, economic development, creation of a sustainable land development code, oil and gas, road improvements and maintenance, landfill and transfer-station activities, and water and wastewater utilities.

The Commission and its administrative leadership strive to provide a responsive, quality government. The input of County citizens is instrumental in improving County government and addressing the needs of the community. Citizen input is sought through committees, town hall meetings, study sessions, public hearings, symposiums, letters and focus groups. Over fifteen citizen advisory boards and committees contribute to the framing of important issues that go before the Commission.

TRANSPORTATION

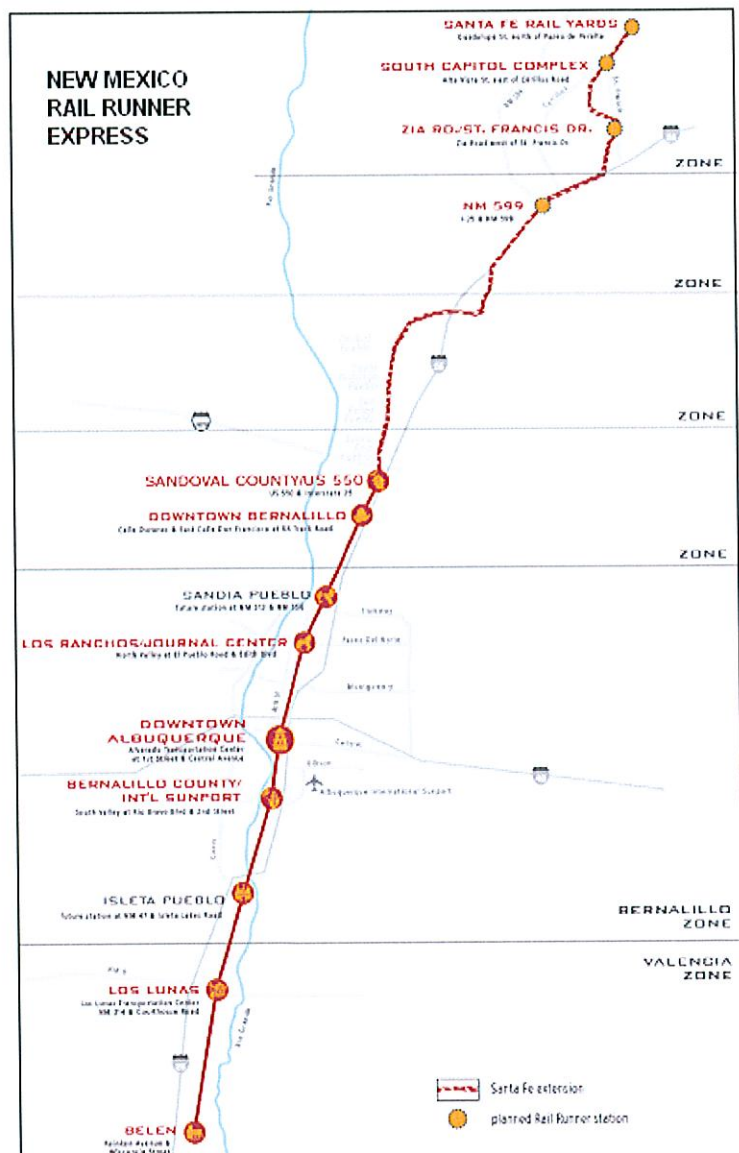

The Santa Fe Municipal Airport serves airlines, corporate jets, and small private planes. The Albuquerque International Sunport is located about 1.5 hours south of Santa Fe.

Federal and state highways also give the County access to all parts of the state. The North Central Regional Transit District (RTD) was established in 2004 to improve regional public transportation.

Santa Fe County also participated in the development of the Santa Fe Commuter Rail project under construction to provide transportation between Belen, Albuquerque, Bernalillo, and Santa Fe, which started service mid-December 2008.

Commuter Rail Transportation Benefits

- ★ Commuter rail provides an additional transportation choice for Albuquerque to Santa Fe travelers.
- ★ The costs of the commuter rail will be significantly less than the costs of driving a vehicle. Travel by commuter rail is almost twice as efficient as travel by car.
- ★ The commuter rail provides reliable travel times that are unaffected by weather or accidents.
